recently was in the city, and who the government man claims is getting out a very excellent $5 greenback. In order to get the right kind of paper he employs a $1.00 bill and by a certain process erases all of the printing. The plates used are nearly perfect and the counterfeit easily passes ordinary detection.

R. D. Case, government revenue collector, has been here during the past week looking up matters pertinent to his department. Cigar dealers and show houses are included in the recent law and many of this class of business men had neglected to take care of the revenue tax. Traveling show companies not playing in government licensed houses are also liable for a tax and the Joshua Shimp company got here just in time for the meeting with Mr. Case.

While John E. Sax, local manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company and Wells Fargo, was examining his automatic pistol Friday afternoon, the weapon was accidentally discharged, the bullet passing through his left forearm. Before a physician arrived the agent lost a large quantity of blood but it is not thought that any serious consequences will result. Mr. Sax was leaving for the depot with a considerable sum of money and, as usual when on this mission, was taking his automatic with him and was looking it over to see that it was in good commission.

Even secret service men will have their little jokes. There was one here last week at the Savoy. He handed Mrs. Shireman a ten dollar bill, instructing her to buy something with it at Lowenstein's. Mrs. Shireman purchased a waist, giving Manager Stein the counterfeit bill and immediately took up the bogus greenback. Naturally Mr. Stein wished value received for the bill either from the secret service man or from Mrs. Shireman. The money was not forthcoming until Hennie had occupied the anxious seat for some little time, when the waist was returned together with the change over and above.

How to "Break in" Book.

The proper way to "break in" a book is to lay it on its back on a table, and then open it a few leaves at a time, alternately at the front and at the back, until you reach the middle of the volume. Some readers have the bad habit of keeping their place by opening the book until the covers meet, and then laying it down, still open. Limp leather bound volumes will stand such treatment, but those bound in boards will not. Almost as bad is the trick of keeping your place by putting between the leaves some bulky object.
